Professional Electrical Engineering Services Final Technical Report

Analysis of Marketing Documents Published About (Aqua Detox) By Competitor (Ions Cleanse)

Scope of Project: This study was commissioned to analyze and assess alleged Safety, and Performance Tests made about the Aqua Detox System in two specific marketing documents published by their competitor: Ion Cleanse.

Approach & Methodology: Electrical Engineering Services shall perform and deliver a ‘cut-and-dried’ purely technical engineering appraisal acting as an independent third party consultant with no special interest, bias, or allegiance to anyone. All technical tasks including but not limited to: standards research, product inspection, data collection, circuit analysis, testing, evaluations and assessments contained herein shall be performed only by Qualified Electrical Engineers.

Published Documents Analyzed:

Exhibit #1) Ion Cleanse vs. Aqua Detox Safety Comparison Chart

(published for and hosted by: Ion Cleanse, <http://amajordifference.com>)

Exhibit #2) Safety Report Summarization ‘of Aqua Detox’

By: Sprackling Consulting Company

(published for and hosted by: Ion Cleanse, <http://www.amajordifference.com>)

Engineering Report of the Alleged Tests: (Ion Cleanse tests Aqua Detox?)

- NO EVIDENCE or DOCUMENTATION of ANY TEST PERFORMED (No Test Facility Identified, No Engineering Proctor Identified) (No Witnesses Identified) (No Test Method Found, Not Test Procedure Found, Not Test Unit Found) No Test Unit Traceability (No Serial #'s, Revision Numbers), Invalid Sample Size.
- NO TEST DATA AVAILABLE – IF IT EXISTS (NO Test Data is Published within the Ion Cleanse articles, and NO Test Data was found elsewhere.) Engineering Services, acting as a Third-Party, respectively requested the Aqua Detox Test Data from the management at Ion Cleanse, amajordifference.com and Sprackling Consulting Company in support of their critical conclusions regarding Aqua Detox – No Data was provided. Then, we requested Test Data for their own (‘Ion Cleanse’) unit, reasoning, they (‘Ion Cleanse’) would proudly offer their Test Data after publishing a report showing their unit passed, and all of their competitors failed THEIR OWN TESTS. Still, NO TECHNICAL DATA SENT by Ion Cleanse.

Analysis of Marketing Documents Published About (Aqua Detox) By Competitor (Ions Cleanse)

- PASS / FAIL JUDGEMENTS WITH NO TECHNICAL FOUNDATION
(Terms 'Pass & Fail' are NOT TECHNICAL TEST DATA, they are final conclusions that can only be drawn from actual test data
  - NO SUPPORTING TEST DATA. Valid Test Data is only Acquired through a Properly Engineered and Controlled Test Methodology, Traceable Units, Approved Procedures, Certified Facilities, Third Party Data Integrity, Witnesses
- PRODUCT SAFETY EVALUATION – CHART LISTS AN EXPIRED I.E.C. CODE (INVALID IEC #60035-1, Expired in 1985, NOT a SAFETY EVALUATION I.E.C.#)
  - NO TEST DATA GIVEN
- Accessibility to Hazardous Voltages
  - NO TEST DATA GIVEN
- Leakage Current Test (CHART INACCURATE, Ref: (EX#2) Sprackling Report (page 2) 'Aqua Detox PASSES Both US and International Standards')
  - NO TEST DATA GIVEN

Electrical Engineering Services Assessment:

We find No Evidence of any Valid Certified Equipment Testing performed on the Aqua Detox System by their competitor Ion Cleanse. No Test Data was discovered – NONE.

The common theme in both document analyzed, (Sprackling Safety Report Summarization and the Safety Comparison Chart) is, No Test Data to substantiate a Pass / Fail judgment – NONE.

Along with the profound absence of technical data, consider the fact that both of these documents are sponsored and published by a highly biased competitor of Aqua Detox, and MADE TO LOOK LIKE a Valid Certified Engineering Test, yielding a simple conclusion:

Ion Cleanse Published a Technical LOOKING Report,
That Contains NO Technical Detail, thus, it's NOT a Technical Report at all,
It's a Marketing Article containing the words 'YOU FAIL' over and over.
